1 July 2020 – Changes to contribution rules

The Government has amended regulations to increase the age at which the work test begins to apply for voluntary concessional and non-concessional contributions from age 65 to 67 and the cut-off age for receipt of spouse contributions from age 70 to 75. These amendments apply for the 2020-21 and later financial years.

This means that the 'Eligibility to contribute' table in Information Guide 2: Additional Information about Superannuation dated 1 March 2020 is now:

The following table summarises when you can make contributions to the Fund or have contributions made by others on your behalf.

Age	Employer contributions	Personal/Spouse contributions
Under 67	Your employer can contribute at any time.	You and/or your spouse can contribute at any time.
67 - 74	Your employer can contribute if contributions are mandated (such as superannuation guarantee or award contributions), or if you have been gainfully employed for at least 40 hours in a consecutive 30-day period in the financial year in which the contributions are made or meet the work test exemption. <sup>1</sup>	You and/or your spouse can contribute if, before making the contribution, you have been gainfully employed for at least 40 hours in a consecutive 30-day period in the financial year in which the contributions are made (known as the 'work test') or meet the work test exemption. <sup>1</sup>
75 and over	Your employer can contribute if contributions are mandated (such as superannuation guarantee or award contributions).	You and/or your spouse cannot make contributions.

9 April 2020 – Minimum annual payments for super income streams

As part of its COVID-19 economic response, to assist retirees, in March 2020 the Federal Government reduced the minimum annual payment required for account-based pensions. The minimum annual payment required for income stream accounts is reduced by 50% in the 2019/20 and the 2020/21 financial years. The new minimum payment amounts are shown below.

Your minimum payment amount is calculated by applying the percentage shown below to your account balance at the commencement of your Income Stream and thereafter at 1 July each year.

<sup>1</sup> Generally, the work test exemption allows individuals aged 67 - 74 with total superannuation balances below $300,000 the ability to have non-mandated employer contributions or personal contributions made on their behalf for 12 months from the end of the financial year in which they last met the work test. This only applies if contributions have not been accepted on this basis in any previous financial year.

Where you commence an income stream part-way through a financial year, the minimum amount is based on the number of remaining days in the financial year. Where an income stream is commenced on or after 1 June in a financial year, the commencement of payment of the income stream can be deferred until the next financial year.

Age	Minimum payment
Under 65	2%
65 to 74	2.5%
75 to 79	3%
80 to 84	3.5%
85 to 89	4.5%
90 to 94	5.5%
95+	7%
